PLENTY OF FISH BUT BAD WEATHER

PORTLAND FISHING NEWS.

Capt. Gouverau III, Leaves for Home Here by Rail.

The local fishing situation is much improved, the extreme scarcity which prevailed last week in practically all kinds of fish having been relieved by several good sized catches landed within a few days. The schooners Albert D. Willard and Wesley Sennett brought in about 25,000 pounds of market fish, while the little schooner Fanny Reed, which has been fishing for five weeks off Scatterie and along the Cape Shore of Nova Scotia, showed up with 36 swordfish, most of them of large size, one in particular it is claimed being about the largest of the species ever landed here, weighing nearly 800 pounds. The skipper reports seeing the Edmund F. Black a week ago, she having 31 fish at the time. The Black is the only one of the local swordfishing fleet now out, and it is expected that she will return this week. Good round prices are now being paid for swordfish, a fare of 50 landed at Boston a few days ago bringing 14 1-2 cents. The fleet of steamers which have been fishing out of this port until recently are now operating at the westward, where bluebacks are reported quite plenty, several good sized catches having been made, the steamer Enterprise of Tiverton, R. I., having brought in 120 barrels Sunday.

Another fishing arrival Sunday was the Gloucester handliner Claudia, returning from a three weeks' cruise on LeHave Banks, she having 800 pounds of halibut, and 12,000 pounds of salt cod. Her skipper, Capt. Andrew Gouverau came ashore sick and started by rail for his home at Gloucester.

Let Go Two Anchors.

It was necessary to let go two anchors to prevent sch. Margaret Dillon, lying at the fish pier at Boston yesterday, from striking the stone abutment of the pier. The heavy wind created considerable confusion in Boston harbor.

Good Drift Stock.

Sch. Good Luck, Capt. James Goodwin, stocked $1125 on her recent fresh drifting trip.

Big Money Made by Boat Fishermen.

The little fleet of Italian boats some of the small shore boats str a harvest last week, the prolific of hake and commanding high pr at Boston being most opportune to fishermen.

The high liner for a single n fishing is Sam Scola who made on a single trip which he sold at ton. Scola carries two men b himself who did well on every d the week. Others of the fleet n from $250 to $300 on a night's set.

Bait was scarce and the fisher used cunners, bluebacks and i anything they could get hold of. S were fortunate to get squid and n ally took the cream of the fishing.

Shore market fish sold high a week, the prices being highest s last winter. For an example, a s ment of large hake from here sold 15 cents a pound alone.

The fishermen have been settin Boone Island and in the bay where fish are still reported plentiful.

SMALL MACKEREL

A few small fares of mackerel, mixed with bluebacks, were brought to the Boston market this morning, the fish all being small and selling from 12 cents to 13 cents a pound.

Steamer Naomi Bruce had 1000 pounds; steamer Quoddy, 2000 pounds; steamer R. J. Killick, 1500 pounds; steamer Independence II, 1000 pounds; steamer Sawyer, 500 pounds.

One small fare was landed here at the Fort, steamer Lois H. Corkum bringing in 400 pounds.

Portland Fishing News.

The local fleet of fishing vessels were very much in evidence along the waterfront Monday, as the majority of them arrived in with good sized fare of mixed fish. Over 100,000 pounds of mixed fish were landed at Commercial and Central wharves during the day, while no less than three trips, totalling up to 94 swordfish, were also landed, the prices, which, during the past week or more have been extremely high, took a sudden drop and from now on the local dealers expect that the market will be fairly well supplied with sea food. The arrivals Monday were the schooners Albert Willard with 11,000 pounds, the Eleanor 30,000, Albert Black, 20,000, Dorcas 12,000, Wesley Sennett 16,000, Viking 5000, Martha McLean 10,000, while the sloop Iceland had 3000 pounds. The swordfish arrivals were the Edmund Black with 32, the Blanche F. with 26, and the Fannie Reed, with 36. Besides these arrivals, smaller boats were coming in all during the day and at the Portland Fresh Fish Co. alone over 5000 pounds of butterfish were taken out. The larger steamer Enterprise, larger than any of the steamers fishing out of this port, arrived Sunday with about 125 barrels of bluefish.

Halibut Sale.

The halibut fare of sch. Cavalier sold yesterday afternoon to the American Halibut company for 13 cents per pound right through.

The Price of Fish.

Some concern is being expressed with reference to the price of fish, which shows a tendency to drop says the St. John's Herald. It is explained that one of the reasons is that commercial conditions in Brazil have gone to smash and that a moratorium has been proclaimed there with the result that labor is lessening, commerce is stagnant, and the outlook is discouraging. In Portugal, another of our principal markets, somewhat similar conditions prevail and a message was received in town yesterday saying that riots had broken out in various places there over the high price charged for food stuffs, among them being fish. These conditions, if they continue, will make a very serious situation for the people of this Colony and it is to be hoped that an improvement in the general outlook will manifest itself shortly. Labrador vessels are returning every day and most of them have done well, while there has been an improvement in the shore fishery in some quarters latterly, so that if prices should drop a rather serious situation will be created for many people who were hoping otherwise that high prices and good catches would help to offset the depressing conditions now unfortunately all too prevalent.
